It was not a happy home. Paul (14) most of his school years in Brighton, a seaside town in the county of Sussex to the south of London. Paul (15) schoolwork much, but he enjoyed sport. He joined the Brighton Harriers running club and (16) in races for Sussex.

At fifteen Paul (17) with both home and school and left. He did small jobs on building sites, but in summer he spent a lot of time travelling from one pop music festival to another. At these festivals a large number of young people meet in the open air for several days at a time. They listen to music and play their own guitars, they sleep in tents or under the stars and they make friends. At the beginning of the 1970s pop festivals were small. But by the 1980s they were very big indeed. In 1973 only 300 people (18)..... to the Stonehenge festival. In 1983 there were 30,000.

For a while, pop festivals took up most of Paul's time. He liked the people, free atmosphere and, of course, the music. But now he (19) down. He has been working for two years now and he's got a girlfriend. His working hours are long. But he (20) time to play his guitar and go to the pub. He likes a good football match too. He's been a Liverpool fan since he was 6 years old.
